Abstract

This study aimed at determining degree of satisfaction about academic experience of the educational administrative program students in Sultan Qaboos university. The sample consisted of three hundred and eighty seven (387) students at Sultan Qaboos University. The researchers developed a questionnaire which contained five sub factors to achieve the goals of the study. The appropriate statistical analyses were used. The results revealed that student's responses for the (64) items of the questionnaire were over the theoretical average. The results also showed no significant differences in satisfaction score as a result of student's gender, qualification or interaction. Finally no significant differences in the result of sub factors of the questionnaire were found based on students' gender, or students' qualification.
