

THE VALUES

Between Changing and transformation

Dr. Ezzat Assayid Ahmad^(*)

Abstract

Changing is a natural Phenomenon. It guides all of existents apparent in different fields. But transformation is another exercise to make a change in different fields of human life in nature, moral, politic, economic, and others fields.

We have two ideas: changing and transformation. There is so much difference between these two ideas, though they have the same source, but this difference is connected with nature of act.

The important matter which we are trying to clear is the ability and capacity we can benefit from in changing and transformation as they spontaneous operation. To have these benefits we are studying these two ideas from those conceptions, particularities of the nature of this act.
